BUCK 110 AUTO

There are few, if any, knives that have survived unchanged for as long as the BUCK 110 Folding Hunter. Ever since its introduction in 1964, the 110 has been an evergreen design for Buck Knives. Its striking good looks, capable size, keen blade grind, sturdy lock-up and expertly treated steel have kept the 53-year-old Buck 110 selling briskly year after year.

With so many made and sold over the years, the 110 supports a healthy cottage industry of after market accessories and modifications. One of most popular and most difficult modifications for the 110 is an automatic conversion: turning the two-hand opening knife into a button-fired switchblade.

Now, with the new Buck 110 Auto you can get one straight from Buck, without having to void the factory warranty by prying the knife apart or paying someone to do it for you. And along with the fun novelty of using a switchblade, the automatic deployment adds a modern level of functionality. With its effortless one-hand deployment, the Buck 110 Auto is the same great pocket knife, only faster to open and use.
