If you are looking for an upscale compact folding knife, the Moab will fit your desires. The American-made William Henry B09 model features 'Copper Wave' pattern damascus steel, aerospace-grade titanium handle frame, and an inlay of exotic ironwood. (See Picture on Page 1)

The blade on the knife is forged 'Copper Wave' pattern damascus with a cutting edge of VG-5. This provides the user with the best of both worlds - unique damascus pattern and the performance of high-end cutlery steel. The blade opens smoothly with one hand thanks to the thumb lug.

The handle of the Moab is an interframe of titanium and inlaid with exotic ironwood. The titanium provides the user with a durable, strong yet very lightweight build. The knife securely locks open with the button lock construction. The button lock and the thumb lug are inlaid with decorative citrine gemstones.

The B09 Moab is a special limited edition of only 100 individually numbered knives. This knife features a bale, braided leather lanyard with stainless steel beads, and matching brown leather ClipCase for safe carry and easy access. A unique serial number is engraved into the blade and every knife includes a Certificate of Authenticity and an attractive wood presentation box.
